Miller, a second cousin of William McKinley, managed all of the latter's congressional campaigns, and for many years his son was secretary of McKinley's Campaign Committee. After graduation from the Canton High School in 1877, Charles R. Miller entered the law office of Major McKinley as a student, and two years later was admitted to practice, after examination by a committee of which the late Governor George K. Nash was chairman, heading his class with a grade of 99. After a year's work with the firm of Estep and Squire, of Cleveland, he opened an office for himself at Canton. Three years later he married Evelyn Rose, daughter of the late William G. Rose, of Cleveland. In 1886 he formed a law...
