Va. : Media Services, Harpers Ferry Center, National Park Service, 2007. OCLC Number: (OCoLC)428980059 Subject: Dayton Aviation Heritage National Historical Park (Ohio) -- Buildings, structures, etc. Excerpt: . . . A Note on Sources 9 Primary sources for information on the Wright brothers print shop suite in the Hoover Block include the Wrights printing business ledger from 1890 through 1898 and correspondence between the brothers and other family members held in the Library of Congress. The Wright Papers at the Library of Congress also include a mortgage documenting the sale of the Wright brothers printing out t to Thomas and Marion Stevens in 1899, which provides a detailed inventory of their printing equipment. The Library of Congress also holds the image of Ed Sines at the imposing table, which is the only known photograph illustrating Wright printing materials. Original Wright printing equipment is located in the collection of The Henry Ford (formerly the Henry Ford Museum and Green eld Village). The objects were acquired by the institu-tion for installation in the relocated and restored Wright brothers cycle shop building in 197. The museum loaned original print shop equipment to the National Park Service for exhibi-tion in the Hoover Block. th th Interiorphotographs of other printing operations from the late 19 and early 20 centuries are also used to provide comparative evidence about contemporary print shop furnishings and practice. Period trade catalogs and trade periodicals provide additional support to furnishings documentation, providing illustrations of and details about print shop material culture.
